United Nations University's Objectives:

The United Nations University (UNU) is an international community of scholars engaged in research, postgraduate training and dissemination of knowledge in furtherance of the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations, its member states and peoples. It serves as a think-tank for the United Nations System, contributes capacity building particularly in developing countries and serves as a platform for new and creative ideas.

UNU-INRA Objectives:

The United Nations University Institute for Natural Resources in Africa (UNU-INRA) is one of thirteen Research and Training Centres and Programmes (RTC/Ps) established by UNU worldwide. The mission of UNU-INRA is to strengthen the capacity of Africa's universities and research institutions to conduct research and produce well-trained, well-equipped and motivated individuals, capable of developing, adapting and disseminating technologies that advance food security and promote conservation and efficient use of the continent's natural resources for sustainable development.

1. GEO-INFORMATION ANALYST

Reference Number: 2008/UNU/INRA/PSA/01

Responsibilities:

Under the supervision of the Director of UNU-INRA, the Geo-Information Analyst will:

- Acquire, process and analyze geo-information data related to UNU-INRA's research and training in natural resources management, biodiversity conservation and climate change;

- Develop proposals for research and training events, awareness workshops and technology transfer in the field of geo-spatial information together with UNU-INRA's partners and submit these for (co-)funding by external donor agencies;
- Assist in the development and management of distance education and general information services, such as library, website and other electronic means of dissemination of information; and
- Perform any other duties as may be assigned by the Director of UNU-INRA.

Requirements:

- A Masters or PhD geo-science, environmental science or a related discipline, with a strong background in ICT.
- At least five years of relevant work experience, preferably in an international environment.
- Good communication skills and experience in organising training workshops, conferences, and fundraising activities.
- Knowledge of current issues about the environment and natural resources management and conservation in Africa is desirable.
- Good working knowledge of English is essential; knowledge of French would be an advantage.

Remuneration: Salary under a UNU Personnel Services Agreement (PSA) will be at US$ 36,000 p.a.

Duration of contract: Initial contract period of one year, and further appointment of two years upon satisfactory work performance and subject to requirements.

Staff members of the United Nations University-Institute for Natural Resources in Africa are international civil servants subject to the authority of the Rector of United Nations University and may be assigned to any of the activities or offices of the United Nations University. Applications from suitably qualified women are particularly encouraged.

Starting date: March 2009

Interested candidates are encouraged to apply online and submit a United Nations University Personal History Form (P11) accessible on the UNU website (www.unu.edu/employment) with a covering letter explaining why they believe they are qualified for this position and what contribution they can bring to the United Nations University Institute for Natural Resources in Africa.
